

More of what Vic wants to do

by Phil Novak

Mayoral candidate Vic Fedeli will unveil more details of his 2020 Vision Plan when he opens his campaign office 4 p.m. Monday on Fisher Street across from the former hydro building.

Fedeli calls the plan "a blueprint for the future which will provide a framework for a new council to plot a course and set a strategic direction for the next 20 years."

Parts of the plan were revealed Sept. 4 by Fedeli when he announced he was running for mayor.

If elected, Fedeli said, he would seek to eliminate all pay and perks for anyone appointed by the city to its boards.

He would also try to sell off surplus city land.

As well Fedeli would initiate the creation of a community development corporation to take over North Bay's industrial park from the city and market the land.
